

Outline for debriefing workshop

Created by Joe Barndt

A. Begin by affirming how well the workshop went, and sharing what the agenda for this meeting is.

B. Briefly review the major components of the workshop (have the newsprint notes hanging in the room, so people can be reminded of the “pieces”)

C. Reflection by participants (one at a time, each person speaks)

- Which piece of the analysis has stayed with me, is most strongly influencing me, and keeps coming up in my daily life?

- Which piece of the analysis is still unclear to me, makes me feel “stuck”, and I need to do more work on?

(By the time everyone has finished reflecting, the entire analysis will be in the room)

D. Reflect on the PISAB Organizing Principles (part of the follow-up packet); explore which of them are most important at this moment of time.)

E. Discuss/expand the evolving organizing plans for your group and make sure everyone feels a part of the next steps
